

FATIMA

A Sensible Cigarette

The Original
Turkish Blend

Yes, SENSIBLE—because it's comfortable

THERE are other good tasting cigarettes. Fatima isn't the only good one. But when it comes to comfort—there is probably no other cigarette in the world quite the equal of Fatimas. Fatima's Turkish Blend is so delicately balanced that it leaves a man feeling keen and fit even after a long-smoking day. You could prove this for yourself.

HOW TO CUT ROSES.

The Right Way and the Wrong Way Discussed.

There is a right and a wrong way to cut roses. The choice of the latter may seriously injure the blossom-producing properties of the plants, it is pointed out by specialists of the U. S. department of agriculture. This applies particularly, of course, to rose plants chosen and grown especially for cut-flower production. Such roses will be largely of the perpetual blooming sort.

When a rose is cut from such plants—tea roses or other perpetual bloomers—only two or three eyes of the current season's growth of that branch should be left on the plant. This should give the roses very long stems. Succeeding blossoms should be cut close to the ground. It will seem like destroying the bush to take so much off it, but if the object is the production of roses, the cutting away of the surplus wood will attain the desired end.

If the spring pruning has not been sufficiently severe the plant is likely to have long, naked stalks and short stems to the flowers. With this character of growth only one or two strong leaf buds should be left on the branch when the flower is cut, so as to stimulate as much growth as possible from the base of the plant.

The greatest temptation to leave wood is where there are two or more buds on one branch, some being small when the terminal one is open. This temptation to follow a bad practice can be avoided by pinching off all side shoots after a bud has formed on the end of a branch. This prevents the formation of two or more buds on one stalk. This summer pruning will encourage additional blooms on varieties which bloom more than once a year.

Name of L. C. Dickerman of South Royalton to Go on Ballot.

The name of Lewis C. Dickerman of South Royalton, a retired business man of that village, and at present the representative of Royalton in the general assembly, will go on the primary ballot in Windsor county as a Democratic candidate for the nomination for senator, by an order signed last Saturday at Roxbury by Judge Z. S. Stanton, directing Karl A. Rember, county clerk of Windsor county, to have the name printed on the ballot. Mr. Rember had previously refused to file Mr. Dickerman's papers, which were signed by 216 Democratic voters from different parts of the county, saying that 328 names were necessary, according to Atty. Gen. Barber's construction of the primary election law. It is understood that clerks in all the other counties except Chittenden made a similar requirement, but that County Clerk Russell of Burlington required only substantially the same number of signatures for a candidate for the senatorial nomination as for the nomination for state's attorney or sheriff. When Mr. Dickerman's papers were not accepted at Woodstock, he applied to Judge Stanton for relief through his attorney, John J. Wilson of this place, with the result above stated.

OF INTEREST TO THE VT. CHURCHMEN

Rev. L. J. Houghton has resigned the pastorate of the Congregational church, Corinth, to take effect September 6.

Rev. C. I. Ramsey, who recently resigned as pastor of the Baptist church, Hardwick, has been appointed state evangelist for the Baptist denomination.

Rev. R. F. Colwell, pastor of the First Congregational church, St. Johnsbury Center, was operated upon a few days ago for appendicitis at the home of his father in Harrisburg, Pa., where he has been passing a vacation.

Methodists through the country will observe Sunday, October 1, as rally day, the occasion being the 150th anniversary of American Methodism under Philip Embury. On that day the children of all Methodist Sunday schools will be told the story of the hardships and heroisms, and the achievements of the early itinerants. The Sunday school board has prepared for the day a special program.

Evangelist Lewis E. Smith of the New England Evangelist association, begins next month his autumn and winter work for the consecutive season. He will conduct campaigns in Essex and Waterville, and has engagements to follow at Bethel, Littleton, Rochester and Manchester, N. H. Mr. Smith is now engaged as musical director of the Asbury Grove campmeeting. During a large portion of his vacation he has been employed in the office of the association, Tremont Temple, acting for the secretaries in his absence.

Dartmouth college has provided an ideal setting for the school for Sunday school methods held this year by the New Hampshire Sunday School association in connection with the Dartmouth summer session. The attendance was not quite 200. Several noted leaders in the field of religion have refused to participate in other schools, in favor of Dartmouth, because its work has been felt by them to invite work of higher quality. Among these leaders are Rev. C. A. Boyd, secretary of the Vermont Sunday School association, and Miss Edith Wright, a Vermont expert in home department work.

The New England Baptist conference, which met in Ocean Park, Me., August 23-25, is the only organization which unites the interest of all the Baptists in New England. In these six states Baptists have 1246 ministers, 1296 churches and 184,576 church members. Massachusetts leads with 81,512 members, Maine comes next with 32,632 members. Then follows Connecticut with 29,708 members, Rhode Island with 19,346, New Hampshire with 14,742, and Vermont with 9,436. Aside from the ordinary work of the churches an especial present day problem presses upon all the Baptists of New England. It is the problem of the rural church and mission work among aliens. It was for consultation on these particular questions that the New England Baptist conference was formed. In Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, the problem of the rural churches is the most pressing, and in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut the religious condition of the alien population in the manufacturing centers is the great question calling for a Christian solution.

Alfalfa—The Enemy of Wild Carrots.

"Alfalfa is easy to grow," says Farm and Fireside, "and profitable as well. Also, alfalfa kills wild carrots." The writer says:

"Fields entirely overgrown with wild carrot can be freed from the pest in four years' time by sowing alfalfa. 'Plow, and sow the land with wheat in the fall. In the spring, seed alfalfa with mixed alsike, red clover, and timothy. This will inoculate the soil, and you will get the wheat crop at the same time. The following July cut your hay crop, which will contain a generous sprinkling of alfalfa. In the fall, plow this sod and sow as before to wheat. 'Next spring, sow alfalfa just as any other grass seed. You will have a fine catch of alfalfa and hardly a spear of wild carrot will appear.'"
